ADULT FORUM - JANUARY/FEBRUARY - 9:00-10:15 AM

February 10: How to inspire the young adult reader? Come find out and learn about our marvelous Cincinnati Public library at the same time! Young Adult books are a great way to escape reality. Whether it's a harrowing adventure, a romantic love story, or a twisted mystery thriller, there's always a new story to read.

- Speaker Paula Brehm-Heeger is the Eva Jane Romaine Coombe Director of the Public Library of Cincinnati & Hamilton County. With a focus on expanding access, community and civic engagement and innovation, Paula is a strong and passionate advocate for public libraries. She oversees our community's 41 location system that includes 40 branches and a Main Library serving more than 800,000 people. She is responsible for the oversight of our ambitious facilities improvement plan made possible by voter support of a successful 1 mil levy approved in May, 2018.

February 24: How do we stay engaged in reading long after schooling has finished? Join us to discover The Mercantile Library the small jewel in the Queen City's reading crown. The Mercantile Library occupies the 11th and part of the 12th stories of The Mercantile Library Building in the heart of downtown Cincinnati and is one of nearly two-dozen surviving membership libraries in the United States. Since 1835, The Mercantile Library has continuously sought out dynamic lecturers and speakers, experts on a wide array of subjects—politics, art, literature, science, religion and more.

- Speaker John Faherty, Executive Director, still cannot believe his good fortune in getting a job at The Mercantile Library. His nightstand is filled with books because he is a slow reader, but he doggedly marches on with his pattern of one challenging book followed by one fun book. Before joining the mercantile John was both a newspaper and television reporter!
